

Easter Brunch at the Hyatt is a traditional holiday celebration for many visitors

Quite likely, the busiest spot for Easter Sunday Brunch was the Ruinas Del Mar Restaurant in the Hyatt Regency Resort, a favorite Sunday stop for many on any weekend who enjoy their fabulous culinary display. Easter was extra special, with beautiful sugar eggs decorating some of the tables, and a number of those enjoying such treats as Belgian waffles and the chocolate fountain were island visitors that have made it their Easter Brunch Ritual since the resort first opened.

Indulging in the Easter Brunch at the Hyatt for the fifteenth year in a row was Fran and Walter Weiss of Seabright, New Jersey, owners at the Playa Linda Resort they couldn't imagine celebrating the holiday without sitting by the water and watching the black swans. Sandi and Jim Greaves of Naples, Florida vacation in Aruba twice a year with their friends Dotty and John Ashness, and Easter Brunch at the Hyatt is a ritual part of their stay. Twenty-five years ago, they bought timesharing on the island for the Easter and Christmas holidays, and since the Hyatt opened, you will always find them there for the gourmet buffets.

The Tawil and Biordi Dads of Long Island left the filling of the plates to their wives while they kept their sons Justin, Jake and Ryan busy with champagne glasses filled with apple juice; the dads indulged in champagne and Mimosas!

Many island families were also tempted by the fresh made pasta and sushi stations, and of course the amazing desserts, which provoked some to lick their plates, even though Mama would likely disapprove! As Fran and Walter asserted, "Life is too short, go for the desserts first!"
